Association of Teachers' College Accredits S. T. C.

Meets All Requirements Set By Association.

Recently the American Association of Teachers' Colleges has notified this college that it has again met all the standards set by the association.

This is indeed an honor and should be held in high regard, for not all the Teachers' Colleges win this high recognition. The association has rigid standards and they not only have to be met, but must also be maintained. The rating of a college is based on a thorough study of:

1. Requirements for admission to the college.
2. Standards for graduation.
3. Size of faculty.
4. Preparation of faculty.
5. Teaching load of faculty.
6. Preparation of the training of the school faculty.
7. The curriculum.
8. Health record.
9. Library and laboratory equipment.
10. Buildings.
11. Limits of registration.
12. Financial support.

Many institutions in this State and others were affected by financial depression, but this college can say that it has affected neither the enrollment nor the appropriations.

"MODERN PORTIAS"

On Tuesday night the English Club, better known as the Modern Portias, met for its regular semi-monthly meeting with Pattie Ann Young and Virginia Elmer as hostesses to a group of twenty-five. Miss Elmer gave a paper on "Hamlet," after which the group participated in an interesting discussion of the play. Delightful refreshments served in an attractive way broke the formality of the occasion for a social chat. The program was concluded with Pattie Ann Young giving a brief review of the current problems and current news from the representative field of art, music, drama, (Continued on Page 5, Column 3)

BEAUX ARTS?

Wasn't it all so clever? I had more fun, didn't you? What! You didn't go? Then you couldn't guess what a good time you really did miss! That masquerade dance the Glee Club gave was one of the "niftiest" affairs I've attended this year!

I must tell you about some of the costumes and the people who wore them! "Bunny" Reynolds brought back memories of Thanksgiving in her "bell-hop" outfit—Murphy's, you know! "Dolly" Bailey looked plenty cute in her yellow and green Turkish costume, too!

You should have seen Mary "Katie" Shultz dancing with the Academic Dean! Incidentally, Mary "Katie" wore a monkey costume and, honestly, she and her partner looked like twins!

The two "Miriams"—Watkins and Bodine—were dressed as Chinese twins.

Dottie Parker had on the most "hodge-podge" costume I've ever seen! Gym pants, pajama top, golashees, a couple of scarfs, earrings, "Wicker" Dunlap's old summer hat—and, lo, the most unique pirate who ever sailed the seas!

But, you know, the affair wasn't entirely a dance! Some snappy entertainment for variety! Lenore Daughtry acted as "master of ceremonies," introducing the other features of the evening. You should have seen the pajama chorus! It was darling! Then, too, there was the "Bing Crosby" chorus. Lucy Mister sang "The Blue of the Night," and the dancers, in long organdies, did the rest!

Have you heard about Sam and Sadie—alias "Teeny" Smith—and Ida Rosen, respectively? They were quite good!

Oh, yes! We gave away prizes! Marie Krafft wore the prettiest costume and "Teeny" Smith was the "funniest looking"!

I mustn't forget to tell you this: Mrs. Bushnell gave everybody there a "Chocov" just before the dance was over!

Now, aren't you sorry you didn't go? Ask everybody who went if they didn't have a grand time!

HIGH SCHOOL BAND

Next Wednesday night at the convocation hour we are to be favored with a concert by the Fredericksburg High School Band. This band is under the direction of John Van Deventer and made its "formal debut" on the evening of January 19 in the high school auditorium. The program was extremely good and a most promising future seems in store for this local talent.

The band was first organized two years ago when the Kiwanians of this city took a keen interest in this project. We are told that Mr. Roger Clark and Mr. Billy Cole journeyed to Philadelphia and made the first purchase for this band. Since then the Kiwanians have stood right behind the young enthusiasts and have to date contributed over $2,000 towards instruments. At present the band is splendidly equipped, even to the finest of uniforms. The Ladies' Band Auxiliary has done much towards helping in the payment of these uniforms.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we look forward to the coming of this group of talented young musicians to our auditorium.

On their program for the evening will be played such selections as Blue Danube Waltz, by Strauss; Lover's Lane Serenade, by Wendland; Promotion March, by Chenette; Festal Overture, by Hazel; Falling Leaves Waltz, by Seredy, and other equally pleasing and well-known numbers.

BOOK CLUB

One of the most unique of clubs has been formed by a group of girls in Betty Lewis. This club has taken the form of a book club, and is under the leadership of Miss Grace Taylor. Due to the fact that the library does not have new fiction, the girls who desire to read have no opportunity to do so. The plan in Betty Lewis is that each member buy one new book. As soon as she reads her book then she may exchange it for another. In this way every member has an opportunity to read about twenty of the newest and most worthwhile fiction books.

Dr. Otis Marshall Conducts Classes In First Aid

Under the Auspices of American Red Cross.

On January 11, 1932, Dr. Otis Marshall, under the auspices of the American Red Cross, came to the college to offer an intensive course in Red Cross first aid. He found 75 young women who were interested in earning a Red Cross certificate. The lectures were one and one-half hours in duration and were held every night for two weeks. Suffice it to say, that a man who could hold the interest of so large a group, who were not to receive college credit for the course, must have a most pleasing personality, and the students must have felt that it was very much worthwhile.

Dr. Marshall is a native Virginian. He graduated from the Medical School of the University of Virginia and practiced medicine in Culpeper for many years. For a number of years he has been associated with the Red Cross as a field worker. His territory covers the entire South east of the Mississippi River. At the conclusion of the course in this institution, Dr. Marshall will offer a course in Charleston, S. C., and still later another in Savannah, Ga. During the summer he will be at the Red Cross Camp on the Chesapeake Bay. At these camps counselors for camps are trained in first aid work. He also plans to return to the College and offer another course this summer. He was very much pleased with the large number of students who were enrolled during the past two weeks. Even though he spends a great deal of time in traveling, Dr. Marshall maintains a home in Culpeper.

Dr. Marshall found two of his associates in college here in Fredericksburg. Both Dr. Cole and Dr. Mason Smith were at the University while he was a student there.

CLUBS AND COLLEGE LIFE

Have you ever thought what a significant part clubs play in our lives on the Hill? Each girl should realize the importance of this statement, for surely she is a member of one or more clubs. But has she considered just what the purpose of these clubs is? Are they solely for entertainment? Just a means of passing the time away? Now, in general, we would say that the aim of each one is to bring about a relationship among the girls that they can get in no other way. Aside from social contacts and a creation by the clubs of a greater social atmosphere on the Hill, one acquires training in leadership and an ability to know people and to get along with people. Then it is through clubs that constructive as well as entertaining programs can be put on. At the same time it is through them that the standards of our college are raised if we so desire.

Take for example our German Club. After one of our dances, do you hear the report that it was a "knock-down, drag-out" affair? Never has that been said and it NEVER WILL. We have established a State-wide reputation! Has this club then not raised a standard in our school?

So if clubs are really significant—if they play such an important part, let's boost them.

Are you the kind of a member who just doesn't care whether you go to a meeting or not?

Remember, that as well as a nation, "a club divided against itself cannot stand." Are you going to be the cause of your club falling through?

THE EDITOR'S LAMENT

Getting out a paper is no picnic.

If we print jokes, readers say we are silly.

If we don't they complain we are too serious.

If we write all our own stuff, they say we lack variety.

If we clip from other papers, we are too lazy to write.

If we stick to the desk, we ought to be out digging up news.

If we are digging up news, we are letting things go hang.

If we don't print contributions, we aren't showing proper appreciation.

If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.

Like as not, some one will say we swiped this from another paper.

We did.—The Bulletin.

INTERLUDE

Door open softly.
Along the hall . . .
And out steal silent figures—
Out and down and on
To Elsie's room, . . .
Pile on the beds,
Still silently. . . .
Wait breathlessly;
Inez turns the knobs
Backward and forward:
"It's not time yet!
Are you sure you know
Where to get it?"
Hush!
Now!—
THE station
And the golden voice—
Floating out. . . .
You be passive
On sheer joy
Never—it seems to you—
Can you be so happy again.
But next time
You feel the same way.
And the next.
And . . .
Years after
An odd little feeling
Will tug at your heart
And you will remember
Bing Crosby's quarter-hours.
—Sara Overby.

WORKS

Why live?
To die
To look at sea and sky,
At field and hill,
Plain and fill,
And leave no work
To tell your passing by?

Why live?
To die,
Without a single work
To mark your passing by?
While sea and sky
Perform their works.

The river its monument builds
Or rather digs among the hills,
For shame!
Live thou to die
But leave a work
To mark your passing by.
—Margaret Ferrell.

LIFE

The road is long,
The path is steep
Unto the stronger will go the race,
Unless they lean from their higher place,
To aid the weak.

You who are strong,
Whose stride is great,
Remember now before it is too late,
"To love your fellow man
Is to be great."

—Margaret Ferrell.

AROUND AND ABOUT

By TILLEY

It has been brought to our attention that you would like more gossip in this column. In that connection, there are two points which need to be brought out. First, if what you want is the kind of gossip that hurts its victim in the slightest, or that is smutty, the only way you will ever get it is by getting someone else to write the column.

The alternative is so simple that it is rather surprising that you need to be reminded of it. Why not contribute to the column yourself? You need not even write up your suggestion—merely give the outline of your news on a slip of paper, place it in Box 184—and there you are. Simple, isn't it?

Have you noticed the Dodds' new car? We can't understand how Dr. Dodd brought himself to the point of buying it, since it deprived him of his favorite source of "poverty proof"; namely, the "old Oldsmobile." One of the girls in his class remarked that she couldn't decide whether it was because he had bought the car, or because he didn't know that the depression had lifted enough for him to buy it, that he made every girl in the class bring a penny one day to cover a postage charge on some $4 books.

Do dreams come true? "The bad ones do," Mary Ruth Jones could tell you. Sunday night she dreamed that she had been called up before Council. She told it before breakfast—and it came true Monday night.

If the rest of you must have such dreams, be they dictated by prophetic instinct or by your conscience, try to keep from telling them before it is too late for luck to have anything to do with the matter.

They say that ART, to be good, must be suffered for. Judged by that standard, Ellen Easterly's "Ode to a Fire-Bell" ought to be good. Do you know what happens to little girls who turn on fire-bells at night?

Mr. Finklestein walking into Mr. Goldberg's office: "Say, Chake, vots dot I smell?"

Mr. Goldberg: "Oh, dot's business; it's rotten."

Freshman Committee

On Sunday evening, January 18, the Freshman Commission had charge of vespers, at which time installation services were held.

The program opened with "Follow the Gleam." Alice Archibald, advisor for Freshman Commission, read the scripture, holding in her hand a large lighted candle. After the scripture was finished each Freshman Commission girl lighted her small candle from the lighted taper that Miss Archibald held. After this Sarah James read a short prayer.

A song by Frances Otey, a violin solo by Grace Koontz, and a poem by Betty Nelms completed the program.

The Freshman Commission plays a vital part in Y. W. activities on the Hill, and it is a distinct honor to be able to serve in this way.

Those who have the honor of being on Freshman Commission this year are: Betty Nelms, president; Elizabeth Abbit, vice-president; Lenore Daugherty, secretary; Mamie Basler, treasurer; Lucille Akers, reporter; Alice Archibald, advisor.

Others are Mae Thomason, Sara James, Marie Kraft, Elizabeth Koch, Lorna Drowne and Catherine Phillips.

ALPHA PHI SIGMA

Alpha Phi Sigma has decided to elect each quarter a member of the faculty as an honorary member of the fraternity. These are to be chosen from those members of the faculty who already belong to honor fraternities. Dr. Cook, who is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma and Sigma Xi, has the distinction of being the first elected. He will be initiated in February.

Plans were discussed at the last meeting for initiations which will be held February 15 in the tea room. Watch the bulletin board for the names of those who made the fraternity this quarter.

Alpha Phi Sigma has given a loan of $100 to the college. It is to be awarded preferably to a member of the fraternity.

A doctor is a man who will advise a rest and make you work your head off to pay for the advice.

If you are caught in hot water, be nonchalant—take a bath.

... Who's Who ...

MARY CLEMENTS

Today, at 1:30, we'll take "so-and-so" group picture for the annual. Everybody meet in front of Monroe Hall at 1:30, and don't forget your dime!

How many times have you heard that statement, fellow classmates? Just when you were ready to eat your toast, or maybe it was the "bacon and apples—tinkle, tinkle," went a spoon against a glass. Looking up you saw Mary and you knew what was coming. Something about the annual!

Do you think that's all she has to do—make announcements nearly every day during the winter quarter? Far from it. That's the least part of her responsibility.

Those of you who thought you were working when you collected poems or pictures for a scrap book, were only playing "paper dolls" compared to Mary's work. Personally, we think Mary has as hard a job as the fellow who collects the material for Sears-Roebuck's "super special" catalogue. After all, they are similar, aren't they? Sears-Roebuck's catalogue furnishes the kids with "paper dolls," and a college annual takes the place of the ole time "family album," so what's the difference. They are both entertaining to a certain degree.

Seriously, though, it takes more than a good voice to be editor of an annual. Responsibility, originality, dependability and sacrifice of time, all play a large part in a successful editor's make-up.

Mary is a successful editor, for she showed us that by the splendid annual last year and her re-election to the office again this year. Not only that, she was maid of honor in the May Court last year, and voted one of the six most attractive girls of the Hill, member of Alpha Phi Sigma, English Club, and takes an active part in several other organizations, so:

"Here's a toast to Mary

Y. W. Notes

Teas and more teas. When did the tea room ever look more inviting than on last Saturday afternoon? The Y. W. girls assisted by Freshman Commission were hostess to a number of Freshmen and upper classmen at the second tea of the season. Miss Alice Archibald, the sponsor of the Commission, poured tea and gracefully placed a gay pansy on each saucer. The tea table was lovely with a center piece of roses and sweet peas, and tall glowing candles. Bridge was enjoyed by those caring to play. The ever faithful radio furnished music for dancing. Among the personnel of the guests were Mrs. Bushnell, Miss Dale and Mrs. Hamlet. The "new phase" of the teas this year is that they are not confined only to Freshmen. Upper classmen are being issued invitations alphabetically. Those attending the tea went away with "pansies for thoughts" of such a pleasant afternoon.

On January 31 Walter B. Wiley, under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, will be the guest of Y. W. C. A. on campus. He is well qualified to interpret the complex and rapid change in the Near East to student audiences in America. He is eager to share with college students his own deep interest in the world-wide spread of Christianity, and to have personal interviews with those interested in any phase of mission work.

Mr. Wiley will speak on Sunday at the Y. W. service at 6:45 P. M. and at the Baptist Sunday school Sunday morning.

At the University of North Carolina, excluding the schools of law, medicine and pharmacy, it would take an exceptional student seventy-nine years to complete all the regular courses offered by the institution.

Richmond Medical pulled a big set-up in basketball by defeating Randolph - Macon. Looks like the Yellow Jackets are missing their all-State men.

Washington and Lee is having its famous fancy dress ball and set of dances this week-end.

Randolph-Macon Pan-Hellenics are February 4 and 5, too—so we've heard!

Students at the University of Berlin study and analyze the various professors six weeks before school opens and then decide upon the course they wish to take.

The gym at Georgia Tech was destroyed by fire.

Smoking by girls is permitted at the University of Texas now.

Forty different nationalities are found among the student body of George Washington University.

The student publication at Kansas State prints a "black list" of all the professors who hold classes after the bell has rung.

Hamlin University, the oldest college in Minnesota, no longer requires students to have a certain number of credits for graduation. Instead they will progress as suitably as they please, receiving a diploma when they have passed a comprehensive examination, regardless of the length of time they have spent at Hamlin.

Drunkenness is decreasing at North Carolina State. For the first time in the history of the school no case of excessive inebriation has been tried by the student council. In other words, the number of cases has run into two figures.

College men prefer college women as life companions, according to the nation-wide poll of the College Stories Magazine. The poll reveals that men prefer college girls because they have "it," intelligence and a knowledge of the higher values of life.

K. K. K.

What is K. K. K.? Ku Klux Klan? No, it's Kollege Kommercial Klub. This live organization began the year under the able leadership of its officers: President, Margaret Kirkpatrick; vice-president, Leota Rae; secretary, Carolease Pollard; treasurer, Virginia Thomas; reporter, Madeline Jones.

The klub believes in both social and educational activities. Last quarter Mr. May, manager of Thalhimer Bros., Richmond, spoke to the members on "Business of Today," giving a business man's view of the three characteristics of a successful worker. Last Tuesday night was also quite an event for all the K. K. K.'s—an extra evening in town and a lovely theatre party.

TIDEWATER CLUB

The Tidewater Club, which is the "wettest" club on the Hill, held its regular meeting recently to elect its crew to lead them in its initial voyage in the sea of STC's social activities. We trust that the above-mentioned statement is not misleading, dear reader, since you realize we speak geographically and not prohibitionally. The following crew is now ready to set sail:

Pilot, Mary Clements; first mate, Lula Lee Llewellyn; purser, Alice Archibald; publicity, Thelma Walker.

The club has divided itself into four groups. Each group in turn will have charge of the program and eats. At the next meeting Sailor Thelma Walker's group is planning an indoor track meet on board. Ship ahoy for the Tidewater crew!

education is $60,000. This is based on the assumption that the college graduate may expect to earn $175,000 during his life, while the high school graduate will earn only $110,000. According to these figures, promulgated by W. A. DuPuy, executive assistant at the Department of the Interior, the college man's greatest average earning is $4,000 per year.

"The pictures of 43 co-eds at Kentucky were sent to George White, producers of the "Scandals," who will select the most beautiful girl. This picture will be run in the annual as the winner of the year's beauty contest."

"PEANUTS"

The Peanut Club, and not peanut vendors, met on their regular meeting night and closely scrutinized themselves to elect from among their midst some "Peanuters" to carry them on to big things this year. The following "Peanuters" were selected to carry forth:

Sarah Daughtrey, chief Peanuter; Nellie Mae Stewart, assistant Peanuter; Louise Jones, recording and money Peanuter; El Taylor, gossip Peanuter.

Don't think for a minute that they're only interested in peanuts and only eat peanuts at their meetings, for their activities are varied and there's a big year ahead.

If you're a Peanuter and failed to show up at the last meeting, don't forget that another gathering is pending next month!

SOUTHWEST VIRGINIA

Southwest Virginia is coming to the front. This club is composed of all the girls that hail from all sections west of Roanoke. The prime object of the last meeting was the election of officers for the year.

The A. A. held an informal meeting in the dining room on Wednesday, January 20th. The new members, numbering almost thirty, promised their loyalty to the red and gold and were welcomed into the association. The finals of the fall sports season were announced. At this time also the honorary varsity hockey team was announced. This team was chosen from the members of the four class teams.

Week-Ends

"Where are you going for the week-end?" This is one of the largest problems that faces the S. T. C. college girl.

There are various solutions to this grave situation that, strangely enough, comes up every week.

The most unpleasant way of all is flunking slips, and as "Amos" says, and I think we'd all agree, "we'd rather not hear any more about that." Anyway, that does keep some of us quiet after the first six weeks.

Then there's the studious type that uses the week-end by profitably digging away at her studies. She is much to be admired.

Next come the girls who take the week-end to rest up—an informal dance Friday night, a movie Saturday afternoon, read a book Sunday afternoon, rural walk Sunday afternoon, and maybe a little studying Sunday night. That is a very pleasant way to spend the week-end.

Then the "social butterfly" who goes away every week-end, which only goes to show she isn't such a butterfly after all, or she wouldn't be able to leave every week-end.

Here's the most exciting of all. First—decide where to go; next, when and how? Then comes the task of getting a wardrobe. With the help of the dormitory, this is soon completed satisfactorily.

After all of this is completed, if her brain is still functioning enough to get away she is gone away for a glorious week-end. These are the most important, but whatever way we choose to spend it, I think we all agree that a week-end is looked forward to, or enjoyed by all of us.

It's A Funny Thing

Have you noticed it? That a certain group of girls that last quarter went around with such a harrassed look, have become noticeable for their bright and sunny countenances. They go to town, go away for week-ends, read novels, attend class meetings and club meetings. They are quite the belles of the campus, while last quarter they were in recline.

Another group of girls, merily attended classes last quarter. They gayly entered every activity on the Hill. Not a week-end found them here. When they weren't in classes they were at town. Now all this is changed. We hardly ever see them, and when we do they have a strange, haunted look on their faces.

Can you solve the puzzle? It's easy—"The Training School."

Dottie: That fellow must have money?
Fisher: So must I. Lead me to him.

Mr. Darter: Who was the smallest man in history?

Minnie Finney: The Roman guard who slept on his watch.

Dolly: Would you marry a man to reform him?

Bunny: I suppose I shall have to. There isn't one of them suits me as he is.

Bodie: Will your people be surprised when you graduate?

Mary Katie: No, they've been expecting it for several years.

Alice: When do you do your hardest work?

Mary: Before breakfast.

Alice: What do you do?

Mary: Try to get out of bed.

Nelson: You look like a sensible girl, let's get married.

Virginia T.: Nothing doing. I'm just as sensible as I look.

Lucy: Have you read Finis?

Wicker: No, what is it?

Lucy: Oh, it's the last word in books.

Delma: How do you feel?

Pete: Just like I look.

Delma (with sigh): You poor kid!

Miriam Bodine: "Why did you take that yard stick to bed with you last night?"

Miriam Watkins: "To see how long I slept."

"I see Ethel Turner has started going to church again. What's the matter, change of heart?"
"No, hat."

Joan Brickhouse: "My mother says I'm a nut."

Mary Kilmon: "Well, she's half right."

Dottie P. (teaching): "Now, John, what letter in the alphabet comes before J?"

John: "I dunno."

Dottie P.: "What have I on both sides of my nose?"

John: "Freckles."

Scricco: "I only say what I know."

Helen Rice: "Now I know why you are so silent."

Lorna Drowne: "I've always traveled in the best circles of life."

Jo Griffith: "So that explains that dizzy look!"

Hear ye! Hear ye! All you literarily inclined folk! If you have any poems, ballads, sonnets, epics, narratives, lyrics, short stories, essays, et cetera, that is literature, and The Bullet needs your contribution. Won't you do your part toward your own paper? Put your contributions in Box 202. And thanks a lot.

Elsie McGowan: "Have you read Kenilworth?"

Lora Moore: "How I hate dog stories."

Jean E.: "What's a blotter?"

Miriam W.: "Oh, it's something you look for while the ink dries."

"Woman is the queerest thing God ever made—except man."
